Portfolio Manager Commentary

The Fund registered a one-year return of 31.6% as of Oct 2025, driven by positive Equity and Bonds returns. In the month, the Equities market performance turned positive with the All-Share Index registering a return of 6.5%, driven by large cap stock price increases.

In the month, the yield curve moved higher across most sections of the yield curve driven by the primary auction outcomes. The yield curve is facing upside risk pressure on the mid-to-long end as the Treasury continues to focus on lengthening its maturity profile however it will likely be offset by lower domestic borrowing appetite driven by increasing reliance on foreign borrowing and government being ahead of its domestic borrowing target on a prorated basis.

Kenya's year on year inflation remained steady at 4.6% in October similar to September as food inflation eased to 8.0% year on year from 8.4% last month. Fuel prices were maintained by the Energy and Petroleum Regulatory Authority which informed the steady inflation.

In October, the central bank cut its benchmark lending rate to 9.25% from 9.50% previously, saying there was room to ease monetary policy further as inflation remains well within its target range. Treasury Bill yields reduced by an average of 0.1% across all tenors as the 91,182 and 364-day Treasury bills closed the month at 7.86%, 7.87% & 9.35% from 7.91%, 7.99% & 9.53% respectively in the previous month.

Outlook: It's likely that headline inflation will get to 5.0% in Q4 2025 as seasonal price increases check in. We believe that the Monetary Policy Committee will cut the Central Bank Rate to 9.0% by year end informed by stable currency and inflation. For equities, we expect profit taking opportunities to materialize in the 4th quarter which could halt the positive price momentum of stocks.
